

SMU: "And what about electricity?"

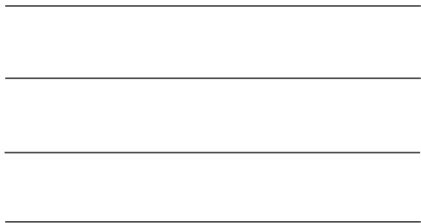

Inhabitant:

"We got electricity in 1986-1987. And that was still another kind of war with the Municipality because we wanted to change the law: If you had built before 1980 you could be connected to electricity, but if you had built after that you couldn't. So we all went to the Municipality and we succeeded. We changed the law in order to be all connected to electricity. I remember that these movements to the Municipality of Rome or to different Ministries gave the citizens a sense of peace. There was true participation."
